

Weaponizing Loneliness to Silence, Separate, and Subdue America

Americans are being silenced today. Tyrants know if they want to control you, they can do it by isolating each of us from one another. Weaponizing loneliness is an ancient and powerful means of separating the strength from independently thinking people. The driving goal of totalitarianism is to demonize the enemy - anyone who is against their plan - by attacking faith, family, friendships and community, dehumanizing the individual into what is called, "The Spiral of Silence".

We experienced one of the greatest attacks on America, and the world, during COVID when we were forced to isolate - physically, mentally, emotionally, spiritually. The parallel epidemic was suffocating the voice of the people and inflicting the toxic influence of power-hungry tyrants. We CAN work together to end forced loneliness and see a brighter America.

In this briefing, former CIA analyst and author, Stella Morabito joins Kevin Freeman in the Economic War Room® to shed light on how hostile forces are Weaponizing Loneliness and using it to silence, separate, and subdue America.

YOUR MISSION: Recognize the tremendous power that forced isolation and fear are having on America and how we can defend our liberties from power-hungry tyrants who want to control our nation.

Ep. 6-218 (OSINT) Open-Sourced Intelligence Report. This briefing includes conversations with Kevin Freeman and Stella Morabito. Stella is a senior contributor at The Federalist. Her essays have appeared in various publications, including The Washington Examiner, American Greatness, Townhall, Public Discourse and Human Life Review. Stella served for a decade as an intelligence analyst for the CIA where she focused on various aspects of Russian and Soviet politics, including communist media propaganda and disinformation. She has a master's degree from the University of Southern California in Russian and Soviet history. She is the author of a new book, "The Weaponization of Loneliness: How Tyrants Stoke Our Fear of Isolation to Silence, Divide and Conquer".

⚠ ATTENTION: “Political correctness, identity politics and mob agitation are a three-legged stool of tyranny. Together they form the machinery of loneliness.” —Stella Morabito

1. Tyrants, Totalitarians Know Instinctively That They Can Control People Through Inducing Fear and Isolation.

Isolation is a key component to Tyranny.

- » We know that human beings are social creatures who absolutely need to connect with other people, because in isolation we can't survive.
- » The flipside is that we have a real terror – an intense, primal fear – of being ostracized, of being cast out, of being rejected.
 - This is often done through demonization campaigns so people will shut up about what they believe, or even lie about what they believe.
 - Before you know it, you have a cascading public opinion that's false.
 - When people hide what they believe, that creates what's called “The Spiral of Silence.”

Ask yourself, does any of the above sound familiar?

Hannah Arendt pointed out in “Origins of Totalitarianism” that mid-20th century tyranny absolutely depends on isolating people and creating fear.

“We're basically pack animals, and how do you take out a pack animal? You isolate it and then you kill it. That's what the lions do to the gazelles.” —Kevin Freeman

That fear is very easily exploited and we're vulnerable to it.

- » Sometimes we remain silent, admitting, “Oh, I didn't want to say anything because I was afraid that I would offend somebody.”
- » Unfortunately, we don't understand how the consequences of our silence spreads like a disease throughout society.
- » A silent public can destroy civil society – we see that happening now!

LESSONS IN HISTORY:

The Fear of Ostracism- It's a common pattern throughout all the radical, so-called, Utopian revolutions.

Go back to the French Revolution and you see the mob in action.

- » They were doing just what was done in the summer of 2020 – toppling statues, renaming places and streets, trying to erase cultural memory.
- » And all these things are very destructive.
- » They had a de-Christianization campaign.
- » Anybody identified as an enemy of the revolution could be pointed out and taken care of by the mob.

This repeats itself constantly.

We saw it in Hitler's Nazi Third Reich.

We saw it in the Bolshevik Revolution, in particular where the war on family was just blatant.

- » Children were taught in school to disavow their parents in the manner of that one child who turned in his father and was later called a martyr.
- » Everybody was supposed to emulate him and snitch on their family in the name of the revolution.

This carries on in Mao's Cultural Revolution with all the violent mobs, pushing struggle sessions.

- » You weren't safe as a bystander in situations like that.
- » You had to join in with the humiliations, supporting the beatings of others to be considered a friend of the revolution.

“During the Cultural Revolution of Communist China (1966-1976), a favorite tactic of Mao’s fanatical followers was the ‘struggle session’. If the Red Guard (the youthful fans of Chairman Mao who believed in his infallibility) thought that you were ‘counterrevolutionar’ or that you were not radical enough, they would surround your house and drag you out into the town square. There, you and others equally accused of imaginary crimes were screamed at (and beaten) by the Red Guard. Of course, your relatives and neighbors would join in, because they would not want to fall into disfavor with the politically correct mob.” <https://aproundtable.org/blog/struggle-sessions/>

It goes on and on.

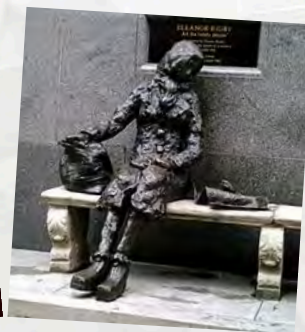

“That fear of ostracism is paraded about, it’s constantly used where the mob descends on the enemy of the revolution or whatever demonizing term is used.” —Stella Morabito

ATTENTION: The use of isolation and fear is happening today. You hear all kinds of demonizing terms that scare people from saying what they believe.

- » For example, “bigot,” or “hater,” or “conspiracy theorist,” because that’s supposed to shut you up and accuse you of being crazy.
- » All the phobias, whether it’s “transphobe,” or “Islamophobe,” “homophobe,” etc. You can’t talk about any of that without fear.
- » An “election denier” is one of the newer ones.

You could call this the “Eleanor Rigby” approach. Look at “All the Lonely People ” made famous by The Beatles.

Eleanor Rigby statue by Tommy Steele on Stanley Street, Liverpool. The plaque reads: “Dedicated to All the Lonely People.” –Wikipedia

2. Tyrants Exploited COVID to Isolate Humanity.

COVID policies forced compliance in the US like we had not seen before.

“Covid was probably the most meaningful, impactful event of the last 100 years, except major world wars and the fall of the Berlin Wall. But it was a significant event for all of humanity.” —Kevin Freeman

COVID enforced our isolation in a way that it had never been done before.

- » Prior to COVID, there were all kinds of headlines about a loneliness epidemic and depths of despair and the suicide rates spiking.
- » When COVID came, it fast tracked our isolation.
- » COVID was used to separate us from one another in the most brutal ways.

The exploitation of COVID worked at getting us used to the idea of being distanced from one another.

- » We became anonymous with the face coverings and those who enforced them.
- » It brought about the snitch culture with all of the fear of death.
- » Severe sickness and death were hanging over everyone, especially in the early days.
- » Fear was magnified by a lot of meddlers, and it built up a sense of a surveillance culture that can be used now and in the future.

“The acid test was COVID, to see how compliant we would be. And people were just enormously compliant, surprisingly compliant. And that’s how it was used. It absolutely enforced isolation that had already been building through all the family breakdown and community breakdown we already had.” —Stella Morabito

“When you look at your neighbor and you see them as a source of your own death, as a potential murderer of you and your family because they have this disease, then you can demand they do anything. You have to take the vaccine, or you have to isolate, or you have to stay away from me. Don’t touch me. Don’t get near me. I can’t think of a finer, stronger method of driving loneliness than thinking of your neighbor as a potential murderer.” —Kevin Freeman

It's just sad, pathetic really, how COVID cultivated hostilities in society with neighbors, community members and coworkers. You couldn't even get into an elevator sometimes without somebody asking, "Have you been vaccinated?"

There's just no other way to interpret it other than an intent to keep us separated.

- » One of the clear indicators was the fact that they wouldn't allow therapeutics or even discuss vitamin D, Ivermectin, or anything that would help people fight this disease. The FDA/CDC is now rewriting history as it relates to their position on Ivermectin.

To comply, there was one option:

- » It had to be the vaccine. You had to get injected.
- » People saw one another as vectors of disease and death. And that's the perfect storm for marching us all into solitary confinement.

ALERT: We've got to snap out of Groupthink. Especially when we learn the scientist themselves just making assumptions with incomplete data sets.

“You're not allowed to communicate any ideas or anything contrary to the narrative. Only the state understands what's right and you must go along with what the state tells you.” —Kevin Freeman

3. ESG is Being Used as an Isolation Tool.

Fearmongering tactics are being used with ESG to isolate.

ESG (environment, social, governance) investing isolates people too.

Environmentalist label Fossil Fuels as KILLERS

- » Fossil fuels – you're killing people if you're using fossil fuels, if you're driving your car.
- » Kids hate parents because their parents are killing the planet.

Standing up for social justice means mob rule.

- » It doesn't mean the mob actually cares about another human being; it means that it cares about an ideology.
- » We have mob rule and governance, which divides us all by classes.

Governance - Corporate boards are mandated to have so many women and so many minorities and so many LGBTQ members, which means:

- » We're identified by our external characteristics.
- » We're not human beings any longer. We're just a number to go in a quota.

It's all ties into one vast demonization campaign. And demonization comes in many forms.

THINK ABOUT WHAT THEY REALLY WANT:

- » They want you to see your neighbor as a vector of disease.
- » They want you to see your neighbor, who doesn't comply with ESG, as someone killing the planet.
- » They want you to see your neighbor, even your family members who don't comply, as the enemy.

“This is the constant theme that ran through all the Utopian revolutions – the enemy. And we see it on different levels. The world class dictator is of a greater magnitude perhaps, but you see it even in one-on-one human relationships with the gaslighting partner or the toxic boss.” —Stella Morabito

CASE STUDY – Isolation, a tactic used by cult leaders

Look at the cult leader, Jim Jones.

He takes everybody, isolates them in the jungle, and works his propaganda on them to the point that they all commit what he called “revolutionary suicide.” 909 people took their lives or were murdered under Jones’ tyrannical leadership. (See: <https://www.history.com/this-day-in-history/mass-suicide-at-jonestown>)

You'd think it doesn't get any worse than that. Well, it does in the sense that dictators have had whole societies under that kind of mob rule, which is a horrific situation.

4. Isolation is An Attack On Our Private Lives, our Personal Relationships, and even Christianity.

“It's an attack on Christianity, historically, or on the church or on faith of any kind. It's an attack on the family. It isolates individuals. Think about it, the sad family that loses a teenage daughter because she gets so isolated and lonely. And they lose her to either suicide or she rebels against the family. Now multiply that 100 million times, and that is what's going on in our society.” —Kevin Freeman

Look at the election results – Don't people believe in the flag and American values and faith anymore? It seems there is a narrative that says those things are bad. But is that truth or narrative?

 There is a story in the Bible that addresses isolation and perhaps parallels, in some ways, what we see today.

Like Elijah, when he just defeated the prophets of Baal. (1 Kings 18 & 19),

- » He runs off, faces God, and then he says, “Oh God, I fought so hard. I'm a prophet and I've done so much, and I alone am left.”
- » Then God gives Elijah a comeuppance and says, “No, you're not alone. I have 7,000 who have not bowed their knee to Baal.”
- » In the next chapter, God brings him a partner, Elisha, to walk with him.

5. When We Get Lonely, We Lose Freedom.

The First Amendment is something that protects our private sphere of life, protects us in terms of our families, our faith communities, our friendships and all other communities.

- » Without the ability to speak openly to one another, you are isolated, and you can't really have relationships – period.
- » That's exactly what tyrants want. They don't want us talking to each other – honestly and openly, in a sense of community.

“Weaponization of Loneliness” is a political book. It’s an economic book. It is a book that warns us about what can happen in the future and gives us a solution for how we can avoid a tyrannical future.” —Kevin Freeman

WARNING: Free speech – we either use it or lose it. And if we can’t speak openly, we lose our basic human right that sustains all of liberty.

Alexis de Tocqueville wrote, “A despot puts all of his care into isolating people. He doesn’t really care whether or not you love him as long as you don’t love each other.”

Vaclav Havel, told us in his essay, “The Power of the Powerless”, published in 1978:

- » Havel was a dissident in Soviet Czechoslovakia.
- » After the wall fell, he became president of the Czech Republic.
- » His thesis is so relevant to the solution.
- » The hidden sphere of life, the private sphere – family, faith, community, friends in which freedom thrives.
- » When you can speak openly to others in that sphere, that ripples outward and helps to create civil society.

ALERT: Free speech is absolute - we’ve got to snap out of our self-censorship. It is utterly necessary unless we want to live in a vault, in virtual solitary confinement. We must boldly protect and guard the private sphere of life. This is hard work. This is not a five second soundbite.

The Power of Isolation That Completely Shattered the World.

Look at the Garden of Eden, what does the serpent do? What does the evil one do?

- » The very first thing he does is makes sure that Eve is isolated from Adam.
- » He makes sure she can't consult with anyone.
- » He makes sure they can't talk to each other before the serpent takes Eve down this road.
- » Then the serpent uses Eve to corrupt Adam.
- » This whole dynamic is ancient yet is being used today.

ALERT: We've got to be aware of the propaganda being used to isolate us.

6. There is Hope When We Stop Forced Isolations and Take Back Our Freedom!

The Power of Community:

Establishing community is the opposite of isolation.

“Community is the solution that Glenn Beck brings up in the Great Reset. If they're going global, we have to go local and build community relationships. To end isolation, get to know your local officials, get to know your local grocer, get to know your neighbors and build community. Together, a bunch of communities can stop this Great Reset effort being waged against us.” —Kevin Freeman

The Power of Freedom:

Freedom begins with faith, family, friendships, and community. And that's what we need to do to thrive.

For example, Stella piloted a book club:

- » They discuss political correctness, identity politics, and a lot of different works on propaganda and how they affect us personally.
- » It would be great if discussion groups popped up across America to talk about these dynamics and fuse enduring friendships.

Vaclav Havel emphasized this in the “Power of the Powerless” – building small communities where you start talking about these things and developing strong friendships.

Know: You're Not Alone!

“A lot of people are just hungering for this, even if there are people who’ve gone along with all of these mandates – people do need this sense of connection and reaching out.

You might be surprised if you refuse to self-censor amongst somebody who implicitly trusts you, even if they don’t know what you believe. A lot of times, and this has happened to me, it’s like, ‘Oh, wow, I thought I was all alone.’ And so, what you end up doing is emboldening a like-minded thinker. And even if the person disagrees with you, you’ve at least watered down the stereotype.” —Stella Morabito

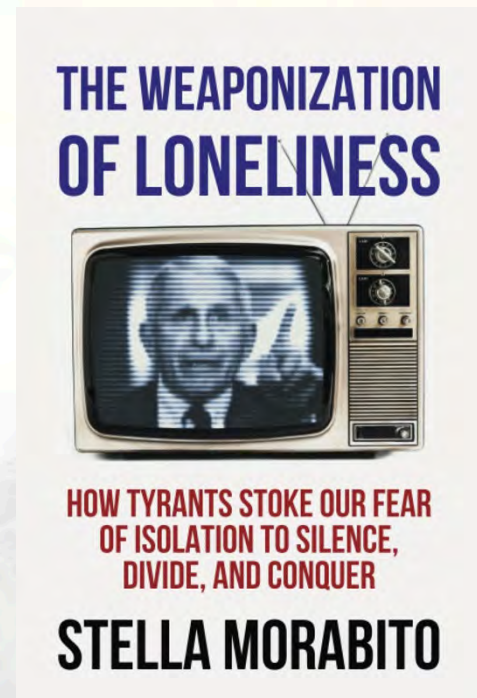

The Weaponization of Loneliness:

“The Weaponization of Loneliness’ offers a message of hope. We can resist the psychological warfare if we have strong bonds in our families, faith communities and friendships. Let’s resolve to talk to one another openly and often, especially about the consequences of giving in to social pressures and media hype. Indeed, totalitarians always seek to destroy private life because it is the very fount of freedom.” —The Weaponization of Loneliness (back cover)
