

Screening for Corporate Bias

The structure of American capitalism was intended to give the consumer a new level of power over the corporation. Companies would be seeking profit and the people could come together and decide to boycott companies if they felt underserved or had other frustrations with the firm. Today, businesses have begun boycotting people based on political or religious beliefs. These companies have forsaken their duty to focus on profits and have instead drifted into the unforgiving waters of the leftist agenda and the Woke regime. However, there is still time to restore the system and reclaim the authority of the people in the free market economy.

In this briefing we will discuss the following:

- » Lessons from History – Buttonwood Agreement
- » Woke Incorporated
- » Woke Screening
- » Restoring the System
- » Getting in Order
- » Action Steps

YOUR MISSION: Learn about Woke (ESG) Screening and how you can deploy this weapon in your financial plan to help save America and restore the system!

 ATTENTION: Cronies have succumbed to the Woke agenda and are using companies against you and your values. Weaponize your money and your voice to save America.

Ep. 6-233 (OSINT) Open-Sourced Intelligence Report. This briefing includes a conversation between Kevin Freeman and Paul Fitzpatrick. Paul Fitzpatrick is a friend of the Economic War Room® and a patriot. Paul Fitzpatrick is President of 1792 Exchange which is an alliance of families protecting faith-based and conservative institutions and philanthropy, and helping corporations move back toward neutral to protect free exercise, free speech, and free enterprise. During his previous season, Paul served on Capitol Hill. He was Deputy Chief of Staff for U.S. Senator Kelly Loeffler of Georgia and Chief of Staff for Congressman Mark Meadows of North Carolina. Before working in government, Paul served in the nonprofit sector over two decades, including Freedom Partners and Family Research Council. And prior to that, he worked for Xerox Corporation. Paul earned a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science with a minor in History from Trinity College in Connecticut and a Master of Business Administration from Marymount University in Virginia.

Lessons from History – The Buttonwood Agreement was in response to a financial panic. The financial panic of 1792 left Americans in the young nation nervous as questions arose about the financial markets and trust was lost.

To safeguard the interests of investors, and re-establish trust in the financial market, 24 of the most reputable leaders in New York finance gathered and formed the Buttonwood Agreement.

This agreement would close the system to prevent outside agents and auctioneers from working with any of these 24 leaders. This assured the 24 (and their clients) that they could trust each other, payment agreements would be honored, and investments were legitimate.

“By creating a closed, members-only financial marketplace, the Buttonwood Agreement set up the foundations of what would become the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE)—although the exchange would not be formally organized and given a constitution for another quarter of a century.” –Troy Segal, Investopedia

The Buttonwood Agreement helped to restore market sentiment and re-establish trust in the investment and banking industries.

From Wikipedia:

According to legend the signing took place under a buttonwood tree where their earliest transactions had occurred.^[3] The New York Stock Exchange celebrates the signing of this agreement on May 17, 1792 as its founding.^[2]

As we face a new financial panic, this time the trust has been lost in large part due to Woke policies. As before the Buttonwood Agreement, Wall Street has been corrupted by cronyism, hurting investors and destroying confidence. Fortunately, the 1792 Exchange, forged in the spirit of the Buttonwood Agreement offers at least part of the solution we need.

1. Woke Incorporated - Is Your Bank Woke?

Silicon Valley Bank (SVB) recently made headlines as “the second largest bank failure in American history.” On Friday, March 10, 2023, SVB was closed by regulators and handed over to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp (FDIC). SVB’s sudden collapse can be attributed to the loss of depositor trust. Many of the bank’s clientele panicked as the share price for SVB plunged on Thursday, March 9th. In the chaos, a bank run ensued. Customers of SVB tried to withdraw $42 Billion within 24 hours. By the time regulators intervened SVB did not have enough money on hand to fulfill withdrawal requests.

After the collapse, the American markets suffered as the S&P 500 dropped 4% from Thursday’s open to Monday’s open. The banking industry was hit hard as similar banks saw their stock prices drop drastically. First Republic Bank, which catered to similar clientele, saw a 65% decline in its stock value in one day. Even Bank of America stock dropped by 10% in 48 hours!

Much like in 1792, the American financial system has lost the trust of the American people as fear of collapse lingers.

How did SVB end up in this situation?

While there are many reasons for SVB’s collapse (including the sudden Fed-induced surge in interest rates), it is clear that Woke policies did not help.

- » The purpose of a for-profit company, like SVB, is to ensure the increase of value for shareholders. The top leadership is responsible to keep the share price growing.
- » In banking, this is achieved by maintaining the trust of clients who would deposit their funds while investing those funds to grow the value of the bank’s assets.
- » It is then essential that the bank make sound investment choices that ensure good returns. If an investment were to flop, the bank may lose more money than it can afford to as it must always be in a position to provide customers with their money should they request a withdrawal.

- » In SVB's case, they held most assets in Treasury bonds deemed safe. But these bonds lost value when interest rates suddenly rose. Even then, the bank appeared sufficiently capitalized.
- » It seemed unlikely that a large amount of withdrawals would be requested as quickly as they were at SVB (over 20% of assets managed). But a few tweets by Venture Capital firms with assets in the bank started an old-fashioned bank run.

WARNING: While not the cause of SVB's failure, there is truth in the notion that SVB went woke. On their own website they boast about their involvement with ESG investing and their WEF rating. When anything other than profit becomes the focus of a publicly traded company, shareholders can get hurt.

As it relates to ESG in general.

“This is about stealing from the shareholders. Because if a corporation is making decisions for non-financial reasons -- they're a public company, they have the fiduciary duty -- then it's going to harm their sales, maybe alienate half their customers, maybe divide their employees, long term, that's going to hurt their stock price.” – Paul Fitzpatrick

While at first glance SVB's failure did not directly impact all Americans, its collapse will likely leave economic destruction in its wake through damaged confidence. Many other banks and financial corporations in the U.S. use similar ESG practices and will be scrutinized.

- » The shareholder is no longer the sole focus. Will SVB prove to be a canary in the coal mine?
- » The saddest stories will be those who's retirement funds were fully invested into woke companies by woke fund managers believing ESG was a good idea. Millions or even Billions of dollars in US retirement funds could be lost if the Woke bubble were to collapse.

“Roughly three-quarters of all the dollars in the US stock market are tied in one way, shape or form to retirement. So, Americans’ retirement security in long term depends on this.” – Paul Fitzpatrick

WARNING: The collapse of woke organizations may cost Americans billions in retirement savings.

2. Woke Screening

Thankfully, there is a solution. For the first time Americans have easy access to information about the biases of the companies they might invest in.

The 1972 Exchange has developed a wonderful tool that, according to their website, screens companies to “determine the likelihood a company will cancel a contract or client, or boycott, divest, or deny services based on views or beliefs.”

These Corporate Bias Ratings follow an outlined list of grading criteria to rate how high risk a company might be on a woke scale.

- » This may help Americans make better-informed spending, employment, and relationship decisions. While a grading system is valuable, they also provide in-depth reviews and sources for each rating.
- » Note that the purpose is NOT to be providing investment advice. Many other factors beyond Woke Ratings must be considered when evaluating investments.
- » If a company you have interest in is not yet rated, a request can be submitted for their team to prepare a report. If you have experienced such an issue with a company, you can file a report for the 1972 Exchange team to review.

“Families need to know, can they rely on, or are they going to be vulnerable working with different companies?” – Paul Fitzpatrick

This brilliant service will revolutionize the American investing world.

CASE STUDY EXAMPLE: Alaska Airlines Review.

“There were two employees of Alaska Airlines that were treated unfairly based on their faith. And so, there’s a case there. So, I just typed in while we were talking, Alaska Airlines. It shows up: Risk level, high risk.” – Kevin Freeman

Summary:

- » Alaska Airlines terminated two employees who disagreed with the company’s support for the Equality Act.
 - » Alaska Airlines discriminates against faith-based charities in its giving and is a national corporate sponsor of the Human Rights Campaign.
 - » Alaska Airlines does not have viewpoint protection for its employees.
- » For these reasons, it receives a high-risk rating.

Similarly, First Republic Bank, which lost 65% of its stock value after SVB collapsed, also scores High Risk on the Corporate Bias Rating tool. This is merely an observation and we cannot attribute the financial challenges of First Republic to Woke policies. Nevertheless, it is interesting to note.

ATTENTION: Woke screening may drastically improve your ability to weaponize your money for a better and brighter future for liberty in America.

- » Go woke, go broke. This has become a popular saying online as woke corporations have seen failures in the products, films, and advertising they have produced, and now even banking.
- » Woke organizations are not just failing, they are also cutting out groups of Americans they deem as unwanted. Chasing away customers does not seem like the best way to maximize profitability.

- » Companies in almost every industry have been accused of firing, silencing, and cancelling their employees, customers, and customer accounts due to their political or religious beliefs.
- » If a bank can close or freeze your account because they disagree with your political views, they can control you.
- » Other companies could refuse you service because of your views on faith or politics.

ATTENTION: This threat can be averted if Americans stop supporting companies that threaten freedom and the American way of life. Removing investment funds from the woke companies is only the beginning. Patriots need to rise up and allocate their finances into sound investments in companies that value liberty, security, and values.

3. Restoring the System

SHARE THE RATINGS: One brilliant way to use these Corporate Bias Ratings is to share them with the businesses you interact with on a regular basis.

If the Rating is Not Good, Let the Business Know Your Concerns.

For example, you find your local bank has a high-risk rating. You can print out a PDF of the review and the sources and take it in to show the bank manager. You can then question the bank manager on the report and ask if those things could happen to you under your current contract.

Depending on their answer, (this is especially the case for business owners who may use said bank for payroll) you may want to request to amend your contract and/or threaten to change banks.

If the Rating is Good, Let the Business Know You Appreciate Their Approach.

It is just as important to support companies that are consistently working in the best interest of their investors and clients. Companies who do right by everyone should be rewarded so that the culture of integrity in business can be restored.

We don't need conservative or Christian versions of every company, we need normal companies that focus on their primary function. Profit for their shareholders and high-quality products and services for their clientele should be the only focus of businesses.

“If a company is lower risk, they're green, print that off, walk into the business or mail it to them or email it and say thank you for your willingness to serve everybody with excellence and integrity, regardless of left, right, middle, faith or no faith.” – Paul Fitzpatrick

ATTENTION: The American financial markets and corporate cultures can be restored!

This is Why You Need an NSIC Financial Advisor.

Financial advisors can take an extra step by using proxy votes to guide a company in the right direction. If a company one of your clients is invested in wants to go woke, you can help stop them. If all else fails and the company refuses to listen to your clients demands, it may be time to reassess the investment and move your client's money to more favorable alternatives.

4. Getting in Order

Whatever it is you manage in your life, a nonprofit, a business, or your family finances, it is essential that you partner with people and organizations that you can trust. This principle seems obvious when it comes to short-term business deals, but it is just as important in the long term.

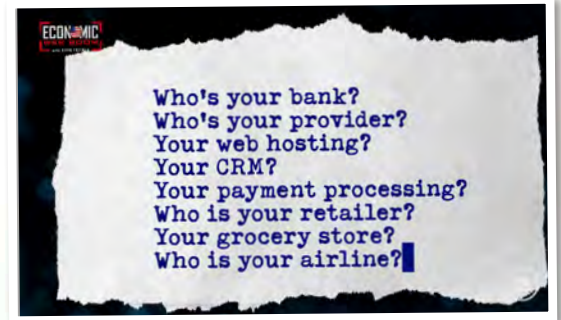

It is Important to Understand:

- » Many companies do not have the best interests of the American people in mind. They have woke agendas that deviate from the values this nation was founded upon.
- » These agendas not only tear at the moral fabric of the nation but also distract companies from focusing on profit.
- » In your business dealings, it is best to be sure your money is growing and having a positive impact.

In summary, woke businesses are not to be trusted as they will not focus on profits, and they will not share your values.

IMPORTANT: It is essential to get your life and business to fight for you not against you.

“Look at what are the important financial and operational supply chain pieces that keep you running. Who’s your bank? Who’s your IT provider? Your web hosting, your CRM, your payment processing, you name it... go into our database you can search by industry.” –Paul Fitzpatrick

Corporate Bias Ratings, How it Works!

By using the Corporate Bias Ratings, you can find organizations that meet your needs.

Fitzpatrick explains, “this could apply in any area of life... even groceries. It may even serve you well as an employee to look up your employer and consider speaking to management about their rating. You may also find that your employer is donating to causes you do not agree with. This may be something to address as a potentially divisive move by the organization that could cause it to lose customers.”

Some conversation points that could be helpful with an employer:

- » “I didn’t know we canceled that organization. We don’t have to agree with all of our customers, do we?”
- » “I didn’t know we were donating to that cause that’s fairly ideologically divisive, maybe on human life or human sexuality issues. Do I need to be supporting that as I’m working?”
- » “I want our company to thrive, sell as many widgets as possible.”
- » “I also want to be able to come to work and have a space where we’re not fighting about issues. Let’s debate issues in the public square.”

“If we would just walk in with humility and love in both our words and our tone, and say, this is how I perceive this, this is how this affects me, and this is the message you’re sending. And you could talk about the consequences of these decisions and policies and actions, the negative consequences, maybe on families. And so, we need to engage in that way.” – Paul Fitzpatrick

The elite are using Woke corporations to suppress and subdue any individual who might challenge their agenda. American patriots must fight back with their wallets by investing in companies that refuse to bow their knee and refusing to do business with companies that have gone Woke. Exchange 1792 has provided a new tool that provides Corporate Bias Ratings to improve the consumer’s ability to hold corporations accountable.

America is a nation founded on the principles of individual liberty and freedom where the free market financial systems was to be of the people, by the people, and for the people. This was the case in 1792 as individual Americans came together to restore faith in the financial markets and establish a better standard for investing.

The financial markets must belong to the people and not be overrun by woke elites who could ever seek to use American companies against the people to control or subdue them.

WHY YOU SHOULD CARE

- » A new tool from 1792 Exchange puts the power in your hands to evaluate companies.
- » US citizens are losing their Economic Power over companies.
- » Greedy elites are taking your money to fund their insidious plans.
- » Corporations are boycotting customers and clients over political views.
- » Economically ill-informed Americans are investing in the enemy.
- » Elected officials have been corrupted and are working for the elite, not you.
- » American companies are going woke and falling apart.
- » God has given you some of His treasure with the expressed purpose of doing good.
- » Winning the Economic War of the Heart will empower you to pursue your dreams.
