1. The Fate of Empires

“A prudent man sees danger ahead and prepares for it. The fool goes blindly on and suffers the consequences.” –Proverbs 22:3 and 27:12

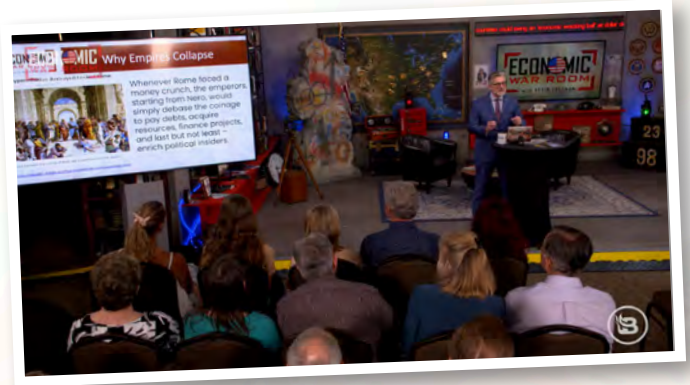

It is essential, when faced with great danger, that one prepares for it to the best of their ability. To do otherwise is foolhardy. However, sometimes the great dangers ahead are not obvious to all people. For this reason, it is equally important to listen to those with foresight on specific issues.

Our nation faces a great threat, one that history itself has demonstrated many times to provide us with the evidence necessary to take precautionary measures.

“Great civilizations are not murdered. Instead, they take their own lives.” So concluded the historian Arnold Toynbee in his 12-volume magnum opus A Study of History. It was an exploration of the rise and fall of 28 different civilizations.

One of the key ways that empires fell is through the debasement of their currency.

“Here’s a quote: ‘Whenever Rome faced a money crunch, the emperors, starting from Nero, would simply debase the coinage to pay debts, acquire resources, finance projects, and last but not least – enrich political insiders.’ That’s exactly what we’re seeing.” –Kevin Freeman

Attention: Great empires of the past fell primarily due to their own mistakes; a key mistake being monetary failure. Modern inflation is quite similar to that of Roman coin debasement and will likely have similar consequences.

2. Five Undeniable Truths

#1 Our debt path is unsustainable

“The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board is Jerome Powell. He said on 60 Minutes that we are on an unsustainable fiscal path.” –Kevin Freeman

#2 Other nations are targeting our currency

China calls for the world to be de-americanized as they work to dethrone the US Dollar.

“When XI Jinping came to power in 2013, the first thing he called for was to de-Americanize the world. And you know how he said he’d do it? He would end the use of the US dollar as the international reserve currency.” –Kevin Freeman

Russia, China, and the other BRICS nations are actively seeking to topple the US dollar.

Inflation creates a wealth gap that hurts the poor and will lead to destabilization

#3 Excess money printing and the Cantillon Effect

“Richard Cantillon wrote in 1755 that he who is closest to money creation, the king and the wealthy, likely benefit from the distributional choices of currency through the system. What does he mean by that? Let me put it in modern terms. If you live in Washington, D.C., and you’re close to the government that’s printing too much money, you get a lot of chances to make a lot of money from it.” –Kevin Freeman

#4 Governments intend to weaponize currency (CBDC)

“For example, in cash, we don’t know who’s using a $100 bill today. We don’t know who is using a $1,000 bill today. A key difference with the CBDC is that central bank will have ABSOLUTE CONTROL on the rules and regulations that will determine the use of that expression of central bank liability. And also, we will have the technology to enforce that. Those are those two issues are extremely important. And that makes a huge difference with respect to what cash is.”

– Agustín Carstens - Bank for International Settlements General Manager

“We think CBDC can improve financial inclusion through what we call programmability. That is, CBDC can allow Government agencies and private sector players to program to create smart contract. To allow targeted policy functions, for example welfare payment. For example, consumption coupons. For example, food stamps. By programming CBDC, those money can be precisely targeted for what kind of people can own and what kind of use this money can be utilized... So, this potential programmability can help government agencies to precisely target their support to those people who need support, so that we can also improve financial inclusion.” –Bo Li, Deputy Managing Director International Monetary Fund

“If you think about the benefits of digital money, there are huge potential gains. It’s not just about digital forms of physical currency. You can have programmability, units of central bank currency with expiry dates. You could have, as I argue in my book, a potentially better and some people might see it, or a darker world where the government decides that units of central bank money can be used to purchase some things, but not other things that it deems less desirable, like, say, ammunition or drugs or pornography or something of the sort.” – Professor Eswar Prasad at World Economic Forum

Those are the words from the people who will be bringing CBDC for absolute control with programmability, determining who is allowed to buy and what they are allowed to buy.

#5 Money is changing in major ways

“If I told you 30 years ago that we’d have a cashless future, a few of you might have believed me. Most of you would have said, ‘that’s crazy. I use cash all the time.’ Do you carry much cash in your wallet now? Money’s been changing. It’s changing right in front of our eyes.” –Kevin Freeman

“Money is a unit of account. It’s a medium of exchange and a store of value. Unit of account means I can measure things in dollars. I know that my McDonald’s meal cost $15. It’s a unit of account. It’s a medium of exchange. I don’t have to walk into McDonald’s and offer them wheat in exchange for a burger. We can both agree that money is something we’ll exchange.

And it’s supposed to be a store of value. Although from 1971 to the present, the dollar has lost 90% of its value.” –Kevin Freeman

Attention: The American people, of every economic standing, deserve the opportunity to protect themselves from inflation and the threat of financial tyranny.

3. Pirate Money – Trust, Taxes, & Taking

Constitution, Article I, Section 10, Clause 1:
“No State shall ... make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts...”

“Paper money opens the door to every species of fraud and injustice.” –George Washington

“Paper is poverty.” –Thomas Jefferson

“To emit an unfunded paper as the sign of value ought not to continue a formal part of the Constitution.” –Alexander Hamilton

The founders hated paper money. So, they allowed states to protect their citizens by declaring gold and silver coin as legal tender.

Americans once understood the value of gold and silver currency. The original Wizard of Oz book was a financial fairytale teaching people to value Gold and Silver and not trust the worthless Greenback paper money.

People want gold and silver, but there are three main reservations.

1. Trust

People want to trust that the metals they buy are real and they are not being scammed. Wherever they then choose to store their wealth they want to be able to trust those who watch over it. A state-based solution would allow for multiple layers of accountability and security.

2. Taxes

Currently, gold and silver are commodities and any increase in value, relative to the US Dollar, is subject to capital gains tax. If gold and silver are considered both legal tender and functional currency, the IRS code would likely not apply capital gains tax to it. Further, a state could sue to prevent them from even trying.

3. Taking

In 1933, President Roosevelt signed Executive Order 6102 which forbade the hoarding of gold by US citizens and forced all Americans to deliver their gold to the US government. State-based solutions like Pirate Money (transactional gold and silver) allow greater protection for the individual as the state could defend its citizens and help prevent another federal government overreach, like the taking of gold.

“What’s transactional gold and silver doing? Is it hoarding or is it putting it into the system? It’s doing exactly the opposite, isn’t it? That’s the beautiful benefit of why we need this to be a state-based, transactional gold and silver.” –Mike Carter

Attention: With modern technology, state-based, transactional gold and silver currency can be a practical solution to protect Americans from inflation and Central Bank Digital Currency.

4. Dunkirk – Lessons from History

In closing the celebration of 300 episodes, and the incredible opportunity to establish state-based gold and silver currencies, Kevin shares the miraculous, humbling, and inspiring story of Dunkirk.

On that day hundreds of thousands of British soldiers were saved by the unified efforts of the military, the layman who rose up in a time of need, and the hand of God who answered a nation’s prayers for mercy and salvation.

“Churchill said, ‘we’re going to have every man, woman and child on this British isle preparing for war.’ King George VI said, ‘No, I veto that. What we’re going to do is we’re going to take a day of fasting and thanksgiving and give God the glory for saving our men.’ And they did. Do you realize how foolish that was in worldly terms? To take an entire day off and give God the glory when you know Hitler’s coming? But they did, and I believe in my heart, that was the day that World War II was won. The day they gave God the glory.” –Kevin Freeman

On that day hundreds of thousands of British soldiers were saved by the unified efforts of the military, the layman who rose up in a time of need, and the hand of God who answered a nation's prayers for mercy and salvation.

In the summer of 1940, Adolph Hitler's captured most of Europe with blitzkrieg attacks. Poland fell. Belgium and Holland fell. Then France. England was next. And yet, almost the entire British expedition force was trapped on the beaches of Dunkirk, surrounded by German forces. Reminiscent of the three Hebrew children forced into Nebuchadnezzar's furnace, when asked about their situation, the Commander at Dunkirk cabled back three words: But. If. Not. They knew instantly that only the hand of God could save them.

An empire-wide call to pray was answered with three distinct miracles that 1) stopped Hitler's tank advance (inexplicably), 2) grounded the Luftwaffe (German Air Force) by extreme fog, and 3) made the English Channel so smooth that over 800 little ships could cross to rescue the troops. It was an absolute miracle rescue in a certainly dire situation. On that day, more than 300,000 British soldiers were saved by the unified efforts of the military, and the layman who rose up in a time of need. Making that even possible was the hand of God answering a nation's prayers for mercy and salvation. Immediately after, Churchill declared, "Wars are never won by retreat. The battle for France is over. The battle for Britain begins now." The King, however, declared that the nation must first pause with a day of Thanksgiving for the miracle they had been given.

Attention: Together, and in submission to a gracious God, we the people can be victorious in the fight for liberty and can preserve the values that made our nation great for generations to come!
