

Liberty and the Battle for America's Core Values

In the aftermath of the 2024 election, it became obvious that grassroots efforts had a major impact. Rick Green and Patriot Academy played a major role with more than 30,000 trained Constitution Coaches across the nation literally influencing millions through major communities.

In today's politically charged climate, maintaining democratic values, personal freedoms, and economic security is increasingly challenging. Elections highlight the state of American liberty and governance. Do the outcomes reflect a genuine embrace of constitutional principles or a mere avoidance of worse alternatives? Civic literacy has been in decline as educational institutions have failed to equip students with an understanding of the Constitution and the values of our founders.

In this briefing we will discuss the following:

- » Current Political Landscape and Civic Literacy
- » Economic Policies - Impact on Freedom
- » Solutions: Patriot Academy and Pirate Money

YOUR MISSION: Learn about the implications of declining civic literacy, the impacts of failing economic policies, and proposed solutions for enhancing freedom and economic stability.

WHY YOU SHOULD CARE

- » Civic literacy isn't just academic; it's the bedrock of an informed citizenry capable of upholding democracy. Without it, we risk electing leaders who might not respect constitutional limits or understand the long-term needs of the nation, leading to governance that could erode our freedoms.
- » Understanding the importance of civic literacy empowers individuals to engage in democracy meaningfully and defend their rights.

- » Economic policies directly influence your daily life, from gas prices to purchasing power. Understanding how these policies might be manipulated for short-term political gain helps you make informed voting decisions that protect your economic freedom and stability.
- » Economic policy affects personal prosperity, and decentralizing governance can enhance individual freedoms by reducing dependency on federal intervention.
- » Initiatives like Patriot Academy educate future leaders in constitutional principles, while concepts like “Pirate Money” offer alternatives to potentially flawed monetary systems. These could provide you with tools for personal and communal resilience against economic downturns.

Ep. 9-321 (OSINT) Open-Sourced Intelligence Report. This briefing includes a conversation between Kevin Freeman and Rick Green. Rick is a friend of the Economic War Room® and a true patriot.

Rick is a former Texas State Representative, practicing attorney, national broadcaster, writer, and speaker, as well as author and executive producer of Constitution Alive, America's most engaging and entertaining study of the U.S. Constitution. Green also co-hosts with David Barton the national daily radio program WallBuilders Live! heard on more than 298 radio stations around the world.

Green and his wife Kara founded Patriot Academy, an elite leadership training program specializing in applied civics with a biblical, historical, and Constitutional foundation. Through their Constitution Coach program, they are training and empowering adults across the nation to educate their communities about the United States Constitution and the value of upholding and preserving its tenets. In 2020, Patriot Academy equipped 25,000 people. By 2022, that number grew to 250,000.

1. Current Political Landscape and Civic Literacy

The political arena post-election showcases a divide not just in policy but in understanding the very principles that underpin our nation.

Civic literacy is critical in counteracting these challenges by equipping individuals with the knowledge to recognize and protect their rights.

With the national conversation shifting towards controlling misinformation, understanding the Constitution and foundational principles empowers citizens to engage confidently and responsibly in political dialogue.

“Civic ignorance... when we don't know truth, when we don't know what the inputs are that produce a good society and a free society, when we fall for the fluffy speeches and the subsidies... is the petri dish where bad government grows.” –Rick Green

The lack of civic literacy leads to a populace that can be easily swayed by immediate benefits rather than long-term governance principles.

This ignorance fosters an environment where the nuanced understanding of constitutional governance is lost, potentially leading to policies that undermine liberty.

The current political landscape is shaped by concerns over diminished civic freedoms and widespread political censorship. Yet many Americans remain inactive in the fight for liberty.

Attention: Civic literacy is essential for preserving liberty and engaging meaningfully in democracy.

2. Economic Policies - Impact on Freedom

Along with civic literacy, many Americans are unaware that economic policies not only shape national prosperity but also influence individual freedoms.

This was highlighted in the 2024 election as many Americans realized their ability to live freely is highly dependent on their ability to earn money and afford to buy goods and services.

Many Americans voted with their pocketbooks. Democrats propped up the economy in an attempt to deceive the public.

“They've learned that high gas prices will cost you the presidency. So, they unleashed the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, dumped all sorts of oil on the market, and pushed gas prices down.” –Rick Green

This manipulation demonstrates how economic levers can be pulled to sway public opinion, often at the expense of long-term stability or true free-market dynamics. Citizens must be vigilant of such tactics to safeguard their economic freedoms.

A constitutionally guided approach to economic policy allows individuals more freedom over their personal finances, rather than being subject to fluctuations in federal intervention or spending.

“The crucible of America has been heated up very hot, and the iron is very difficult to shape unless it's hot. What does that mean? That means bring the hammer down. You strike while the iron is hot. This is our opportunity. Like you said, we use another analogy. Goliath's been struck in the head now. We've got to cut his head off, and we've (metaphorically) got to chase the Philistines out of the land and kill the other giants. This is our moment, and it's our moment economically. It's our moment spiritually. It's our moment across the board.” –Kevin Freeman

One of the major issues with economic policy is that regulatory agencies infringe on individual rights.

Government agencies like the ATF, FDA, IRS, and others are not protected powers granted to the federal government in the Constitution.

Their existence harms American liberty and siphons massive amounts of government funding away from the expressed purpose of the federal government.

It is time to give the power back to the people and fix our government.

⚠ Attention: Economic policies that empower states and individuals, over federal agencies, protect personal and economic freedoms.

3. Solutions: Patriot Academy and Pirate Money

Practical solutions like the Patriot Academy and “Pirate Money” aim to address both civic ignorance and economic security.

Patriot Academy’s leadership training programs provide citizens with the tools to understand the Constitution and engage in civic duty.

“By investing in Patriot Academy, you’re planting a seed of liberty...to train patriots across the nation... we need to get back to the 17 things the Constitution says the federal government can do and get them out of everything else” –Rick Green

Patriot Academy aims to educate and empower citizens with constitutional knowledge, while alternative monetary systems like “Pirate Money” propose ways to circumvent potential economic pitfalls.

Additionally, by promoting a State-based gold and silver currency or “Pirate Money,” communities can hedge against economic instability, ensuring that individuals have financial security regardless of broader economic shifts.

“We have to make sure that we have true free enterprise in this country. We can’t do that without good money supply and actually having something that we can count on an honest weight and measure. So, you and I were talking about this on another program. We have about 20 states right now that are considering and working on legislation to actually pass transactional gold.” –Rick Green

Past federal policies have led to economic instability, which in turn affects personal liberty and quality of life.

A shift towards decentralized governance—where states hold more economic authority—presents a vision for enhanced individual freedom through reduced dependency on federal programs.

This decentralization could foster a more resilient and prosperous economy, allowing states to adapt policies to better suit their communities' needs.
