

An Economic War Room® Christmas Carol (reviewing 2024)

The year 2024 was a period of dramatic challenges and remarkable triumphs. In the spirit of Charles Dickens, Kevin explores the “Ghosts” of our past, present, and future to identify the bad, the good, and the beautiful moments that shaped our journey. By revisiting these lessons, we can glean insights into protecting liberty, fostering resilience, and creating a hopeful path forward.

In this briefing we will discuss the following:

1. The Ghost of Christmas Past (The Bad)

The “Ghost of Christmas Past” exposes the bad of 2024: political manipulation, economic instability, and global security threats.

The manipulation of truth and the weaponization of institutions against political opponents were clear threats to American Liberty.

The lies to the public and the politically motivated weaponization of the Justice Department illustrate a broader issue of trust erosion in political systems.

“There’s been an obvious war on truth. Remember when they told us that President Biden was the sharpest he’s ever been? Well, they lied... then we had the debates, and his performance was so terrible that Americans wondered, what else have they been lying to us about?” –Kevin Freeman

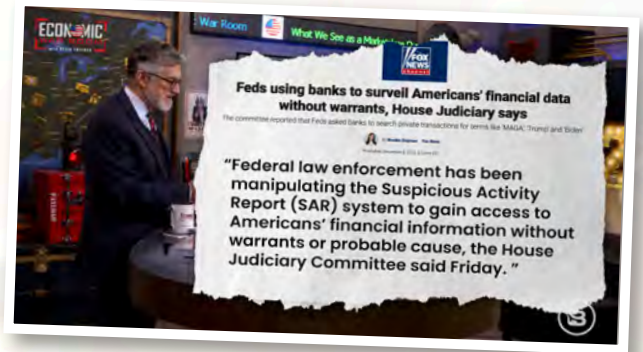

The American people are sick of being lied to, and the deceivers have lost their trust. This lack of trust in the American government is both dangerous and exciting.

There is potential for reform inspired by a growing revolutionary sentiment among the people. However, as the people become more skeptical, there is also the potential for weakened national security.

Like the “boy who cried wolf,” a true threat could be ignored after all the lies have eroded the public’s confidence in the government.

The nation also faced a spiraling, and crippling national debt threat as the Biden administration furthered the nation’s debt problems, reaching over $36 trillion and adding $1 trillion every 3-4 months.

On top of all that, wars have plagued the last few years, many of them escalating in 2024. The tension is high as World War III looms on the horizon, if it is not averted through a combination of skillful diplomacy and outright luck.

 Attention: The year 2024 exposed deep-seated issues of misinformation and governmental overreach, threatening core democratic values.

2. The Ghost of Christmas Present (The Good)

Despite the challenges, 2024 also saw significant wins for free speech, economic policies, and personal liberties.

The “Ghost of Christmas Present” reveals the good: successes in combating harmful policies and promoting free speech.

The failure of the Marxist billion-dollar propaganda machine, with Trump’s successful campaign, marks a positive turning point in our nation’s history.

Along with Trump's victory, there has been major pushback against Woke ideas in corporate settings.

DEI policies, some of the most damaging policies corporate America has seen in decades, are in decline as major companies are cutting ties.

“Walmart abandoned DEI in favor of promoting the most qualified and best workers rather than obvious racism.”

—Kevin Freeman

These developments, from policy changes to corporate decisions, reflect a revolution against divisive practices and an affirmation of meritocracy, which directly improves workplace and educational environments.

These changes make 2024 a year of healing, or at least the first stages when the wound is still sore, but the bleeding has stopped, and the infection is in remission.

These are victories to celebrate this holiday season!

⚠ Attention: 2024 showcased victories in policy and corporate America that foster a more equitable and free society.

3. The Ghost of Christmas Future (The Beautiful)

The “Ghost of Christmas Future” offers a glimpse of the beautiful: renewed hope, strong leadership, and the promise of reform.

Looking forward, to the years ahead, we see the potential for peace and prosperity.

With the promise of economic reforms, stronger national security, and international peace negotiations, there's an optimistic view for the future under new leadership.

“Things looked pretty dire at times the past four years...yet the American people saw through the propaganda and voted MAGA... [now] people will be proud of America again. A shining city on a hill, if we do not lose heart.” –Kevin Freeman

We look forward to the return of religious liberty with Coach Kennedy’s victory in the Supreme Court.

There is also a resurgence of optimism among small businesses with Trump’s election and the Department of Government Efficiency (DOGE) led by Elon Musk and Vivek Ramaswamy, promises to tackle government waste and inefficiency.

To top it all off, the potential for peace through negotiation under Trump’s leadership, particularly in conflict zones like the Middle East and Ukraine, provides hope that World War III could be averted by Trump’s peace through strength strategy.

Attention: The future holds the promise of revitalized national pride, economic stability, and global peace if current trends continue.
