

Stealing a Birthright?

The 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, enacted post-Civil War to secure citizenship for freed slaves, has become a focal point of contemporary debate over birthright citizenship. Disagreement over the historical context, legal implications, and modern-day applications of this amendment, particularly in light of the Wong Kim Ark case, have formed as national security concerns involving birth tourism have inspired some to call for constitutional, legislative, or executive reform.

In this briefing we will discuss the following:

- » 14th Amendment and Birthright Citizenship
- » National Security: Birth Tourism, Anchor Babies, and Immigration Exploitation
- » Potential for Constitutional Amendment or Executive Action

YOUR MISSION: Understand the complexities and implications of the 14th Amendment on current U.S. citizenship laws, national security, and the potential pathways for reform.

WHY YOU SHOULD CARE

- » The interpretation of the 14th Amendment directly impacts who is legally recognized as a U.S. citizen, affecting everything from voting rights to access to public services.
- » Immigration exploitation affects economic resources, national security, and equality for U.S. citizens.
- » For national security, it is essential that these issues are addressed, this will likely need to come from legal reform through an amendment or an executive action.

Ep. 9-330 (OSINT) Open-Sourced Intelligence Report. This briefing includes a conversation between Kevin Freeman, E.W. Jackson, and Louie Gohmert. E.W. and Louie are friends of the Economic War Room® and American Patriots.

E.W. Jackson is the author of three books: “Ten Commandments to an Extraordinary Life,” “12 Principles to Make Your Life Extraordinary” and “Sweet Land of Liberty – Reflections of a Patriot Descended From Slaves,” published in January 2023. He speaks at churches, schools, nonprofit organizations, colleges, universities and political events nationwide. He has been a guest on Fox Cable News, NewsMax, One America News, CBN World News, C- Span’s Washington Journal and other television and radio programs. Bishop Jackson was the Republican nominee for Lt. Governor and a candidate for U.S. Senate in Virginia.

Louie Gohmert served nine terms in the United States House of Representatives, first sworn in on January 4, 2005. He proudly represented the First District of Texas. Prior to being elected to serve in Congress, he was elected to three terms as a district judge in Smith County, Texas. During his tenure on the bench, he gained national and international attention for some of his creative rulings. And he was appointed by Texas Governor Rick Perry to complete a term as Chief Justice of the 12th Court of Appeals. A favorite among Tea Party groups, Louie speaks often as a fellow Tea Party advocate across Texas and the United States. He boldly stands on America’s founding principles and is constantly coming up with big, innovative ideas solidly based on Constitutional fundamentals.

1. The 14th Amendment and Birthright Citizenship

The 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution was enacted after the Civil War to secure citizenship for freed slaves.

However, its interpretation has evolved, culminating in the 1898 United States v. Wong Kim Ark decision. This landmark case affirmed citizenship for children born in the U.S. to non-citizen parents legally residing in the country.

“The 14th Amendment was never intended to give what’s considered to be birthright citizenship to anybody born on American soil.” –E.W. Jackson

The decision’s emphasis on textual interpretation over historical intent has sparked modern challenges, particularly concerning undocumented immigrants and birth tourism.

Proponents argue for legislative clarity to ensure the amendment aligns with its original purpose and protects Americans from national security threats.

 Attention: The 14th Amendment's interpretation affects the fundamental question of 'who is an American citizen?', with its interpretation impacting the lives of all Americans.

NOTE: Even under the Wong Kim Ark decision, many Native Americans were not deemed citizens until the Indian Citizenship act of 1924. Until then, Native Americans born on U.S. soil and under the legal authority of the American government were denied citizenship because they were felt to have allegiance to their tribes. If that was considered true under the 14th Amendment, how could it be possible that the children of foreign nationals, who came here illegally, would automatically be citizens? That concept is absurd and an offense to those with a Native heritage or whose forebears were slaves.*

2. National Security: Birth Tourism, Anchor Babies, and Immigration Exploitation

The practice of “birth tourism”—foreign nationals giving birth in the U.S. to secure citizenship for their children—raises significant concerns.

This exploitation allows foreign adversaries and economic migrants to manipulate U.S. laws, potentially compromising resources and security.

“We have these Chinese Communist Party police stations. And so there are citizens here that are also under the jurisdiction of China. I don't see how this (automatic birthright citizenship for babies of non-Americans) could in any way be constitutional. And yet, that's the way it's been interpreted. And it's created an enormous immigration problem.” —Kevin Freeman

The term “anchor babies” underscores the policy's contentious nature. Critics argue that birthright citizenship for children of undocumented immigrants dilutes the resources and opportunities meant for U.S. citizens.

The issue is further complicated by its implications for national security and the potential influx of individuals with conflicting loyalties.

⚠ Attention: Addressing birth tourism and anchor babies is critical for safeguarding national security and resource integrity.

3. Potential for Constitutional Amendment or Executive Action

A potential solution lies in clarifying the 14th Amendment's scope through constitutional amendment, Supreme Court reinterpretation, legislative action, or Executive Order.

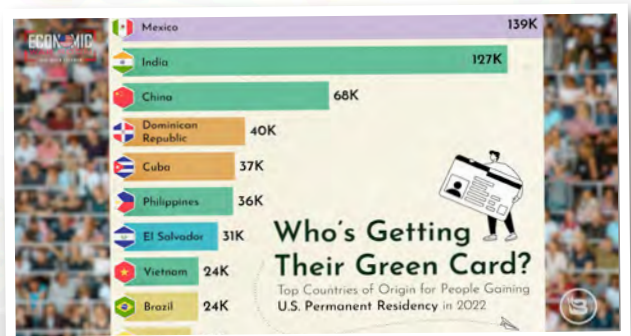

Advocates propose limiting citizenship to children born to at least one U.S. citizen parent, aligning with international norms.

“The Constitution is not a suicide pact... We don't have to commit suicide by bringing people that hate this country.” –Louie Gohmert

A constitutional amendment could eliminate ambiguities, ensure consistency, and reflect modern realities.

While executive action may offer a temporary solution, legislative clarity provides a robust, enduring framework.

⚠ Attention: Legislative reform ensures the 14th Amendment reflects its original purpose and addresses contemporary challenges to secure our nation.
